TESTIMONIAL TO THE REV. C. M. WETHERALL.

As soon as it became thoroughly understood in the Parish that Mr. Wetherall was about to leave the curacy at Christmas, a wish was very generally expressed to shew the esteem and respect in which he was held, by presenting him with a substantial testimonial. No difficulty was found in obtaining support to the scheme. All classes, and almost all persons in each class, readily promised and paid their subscriptions. The highest and the lowest were united. There appeared to be one universal feeling that he had conducted himself in his position as Curate, so as to win the good opinion of all persons, and one universal regret that he was going away.

Wednesday, the 20th December, the day before he was to take his leave, was the day appointed for presenting the testimonial to him. Notice was given as generally as possible, that all persons would be welcome at the Schoolroom at Hambleden, at 4 p.m. on that day, to see the present itself and to witness the presentation. A great many persons attended, in spite of the wetness of the afternoon. A few minutes after 4 o'clock, Mr. Wetherall followed the Rector into the Schoolroom, where the present lay covered with a cloth. The Rector announced in a few words what was the purpose of the gathering, and then called on Mr. Lailey, as churchwarden, to explain more particularly to Mr. Wetherall, the feelings of the Parishioners. Mr. Lailey having done this, took off the cloth, and exposed to view a handsome silver coffee-pot, cream jug and waiter, which he requested Mr. Wetherall to accept from the inhabitants of the Parish, as a token of their esteem and goodwill. Mr. Wetherall, in a few simple and expressive words, returned his thanks to his friends present, and through them to the other contributors, assuring them how deeply he felt that he did not deserve so much kindness, but how sensible he was of the great kindness he had always received since he came to Hambleton.
